TWO SENT TO COUNTY JAIL

DRAPER AND ANDERSON GET SIX-MONTH TERMS.

GILMORE FINED $100

Last Case Against Former Star Barn Proprietor Is Disposed Of.—Two Divorces Granted.

Harley Anderson and Floyd Draper, arrested Saturday night at a farm dance given by Will Ramey, were each sentenced to serve six months in the county jail when they pleaded guilty to a charge of transportation of intoxicating liquor when arraigned in Circuit Court late yesterday afternoon.

A heavier sentence was not imposed because of the pleas of guilty and the youth of the defendants, Anderson being only 19 and Draper 21.

Quince A. Gilmore, defendant in a city liquor case appealed to the circuit court from police court, withdrew a plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty, Judge John M. Dawson then imposed a fine of $100 and costs.

Gilmore, one of the former proprietors of the Star barn, closed by injunction, was fined $250 at his police court trial, but in a state case arising out of the same raid he was fined $400 and costs, which the court held severe enough.

Barn In New Hands.

The minimum fine was opposed by A. P. Harvey, city attorney, on the ground that Gilmore had been given a chance once before and that he had repeated his offense. George Pat Wright, prosecuting attorney, stated, however, that there had been no complaints since the barn had been placed in new hands and that Gilmore apparently was observing the conditions imposed upon him in the state case.

The city attorney also failed in an attempt to have the court set aside a similar fine of $100 imposed several weeks ago against George Hammond, a co-defendant with Gilmore.

Mrs. Mazie McDonald was granted a divorce from William W. McDonald.

In the damage suit of Earl Booth against William Job, decided in favor of Job at the last term of court, the order granting an appeal was set aside at the application of Booth's attorneys.

H. H. Mutz was given a judgment by default for $181 in his suit on account against Dan Snoderly.

Pauline Masters was granted a divorce from Sidney Masters and custody of their minor child. Mrs. Masters also was granted monthly alimony of $35, beginning May 1, and an attorney fee of $50.

Other proceedings late yesterday were:

George Korell against State Highway Commission, contract, the report of W. G. Sawyers, referee, approved and judgment rendered accordingly for $1,659.05 with interest at 8 per cent from Nov. 25, 1922.

Grover Sparks, trustee, against Marion Eugene Womack, replevin (change of venue), settled and dismissed at the cost of plaintiff.

Attachment Sustained

L. C. Wilson against Owen Holt, attachment; the attachment sustained for want of a plea in abatement; defendant defaults and judgment rendered for the plaintiff on the first count for $273.24, less ———, at 8 per cent, on the second count, $73 at 6 per cent.

L. Shonesy against Allie R. Bradley and others, note, judgment for plaintiff by default for $739.34 at 8 per cent and an attorney fee of $65.

J. H. Graham against Sam Robbins, note, judgment for plaintiff by default for $712 at 8 per cent.

Ben W. Travis against Glen D. Swinford, note plaintiff dismisses suit.

The following cases were continued this morning:

Ben W. Travis against Grant Trusty and others, note.

Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., against From Brothers, account.

W. F. Hartman against Russell Bagby, damages.

J. T. Carlton against G. E. Alkire and others, note.

G. T. O'Malley, Inc., against Willard G. Carpenter, conversion.

Roy Miller against Annie O'Howell, damages.

Theodore Knox against George Brown and others, damages.

Mary L. Maher and others against Rebecca J. McGarey and others, will contest.

About thirty-five cases have been set for trial before Judge Park, and the regular petit jury probably will be summoned.

Conception Junction Dogs Are Vaccinated

"Vaccinate or Decapitate" is Ruling By City Council After Rabies Scare

Dr. R. L. Wohlford vaccinated eighteen dogs in Conception Junction yesterday for prevention of rabies. This was the result of a city ordinance which said, "vaccination or decapitation.' Several weeks ago a rabies scare resulted from a squirrel going mad and biting several persons in Conception Junction.

Dr. Wohlford also vaccinated dogs at the homes of George and W. S. Swinford, near Bedison, yesterday.

Car Hits Water Plug; City Supply Cut Off

Driver of Automobile Thought to Be a Woman—Car Backed Away From Scene and Disappeared

The water plug in front of the Garten and Castillo pool hall on East Fourth street was broken loose about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was struck by a car which climbed partially onto the sidewalk before it was stopped.

Although a number of people were close by when the plug was struck, there are also a number of different stories on the matter. The general opinion is that a woman was driving the car, but reports are that it bore an Iowa, and Illinois, or a Missouri license. One man said that the woman was accompanied by a man but that she was doing the driving.

Water spurted out in all directions after the plug was hit. The car backed away and disappeared. Today the plug boasts of two metal rods, which holds it in position.

City water was shut off for a time while the plug was being repaired. It was necessary to cut off about six valves to make the repairs. This caused the water which later ran out of faucets to have a muddy appearance.

VACCINATION URGED HERE

NINE CASES OF SMALLPOX NOW UNDER QUARANTINE.

CURE IN PREVENTION

Miss Margaret Davison, County Health Nurse, Asks Parents To Protect Their Children.

The Nodaway County Health Department today started a vigorous campaign for vaccination of children against smallpox. This campaign was prompted by five cases of the disease which have broken out in Maryville and four just outside the city limits.

"Children must be vaccinated," Miss Margaret Davison, county health nurse, said this morning. "Prevention is the best cure in a case of this kind, and if parents will co-operate with the department, there need be no fear of the disease spreading to a great extent."

Miss Davison particularly urged the vaccination of younger children, because, she said, it is believed that some of the cases of smallpox now under quarantine may have exposed numbers of school children.

In speaking of smallpox, Miss Davison said: "Smallpox is an acute contagious disease. The symptoms are sharp chills followed by fever, headache, backache, nausea, and vomiting. Firm, red pimples begin to appear on the face and hands and may extend to other parts of the body. In severe cases, the pimples break and pus runs out. Those who live through the disease are often pock-marked."

Miss Davison said that there are many wrong ideas which lead people to fight against vaccination. "It is not true that vaccination causes lock-jaw or is full of harmful germs," she said. "Vaccine is prepared under the most sanitary conditions, each step being under the control of the United States government. All germs but those which produce immunity against smallpox are killed. Vaccine is pure, safe, and clean."

Miss Davison stressed the point that it is far less expensive to pay the nominal cost of vaccination than to run the risk of allowing the disease to spread.

Courtney Sisters in a Pleasing Program

Kansas City Audience Captivated by Young Girls Who Will Visit Here This Summer.

The Courtney Sisters of Kansas City (Ellen and Kathryn), appeared in a program of musical numbers and readings Saturday night, May 8, at the First Baptist Church in Kansas City. Under the direction of their mother, Mrs. W. E. Courtney, the youthful entertainers presented a similar program at the same church on March 19, when they captivated their audience to the extent that they were asked to repeat the performance.

At the close of school, the girls will come to Maryville to spend the summer with Mrs. Courtney's brothers and sisters. Mrs. Courtney will accompany them here for a short visit.

ADJOURNMENT IS POSTPONED

CONGRESS MAY HOLD FORTH UNTIL ABOUT JULY 1.

TO PRESS RELIEF BILL

Agricultural Bloc Serves Notice That Measure Will Be Called Up This Week.

Washington, May 18—The administration's plans to send Congress home on its annual vacation by June 1 was abandoned today after President Coolidge sent word to Capitol Hill that he desired the French debt settlement be ratified before adjournment.

Due to the President's wishes, the French agreement refunding more than two billion dollars in war loans will be considered by Congress at this session and the adjournment postponed until June 15 or possibly even July 1.

The pact will be taken up by the House first, while the Senate will defer action on it until after it has been ratified by the French parliament, which convenes on May 27. A message, meanwhile, has been sent to Paris that the French parliament must approve the pact by June 2, it was learned, or the American Senate will postpone its ratification until next fall.

This provision was insisted upon by Congressional leaders who declared that they could not hold a quorum at the capital much after that date because of primary elections and that the Senate would not consider the settlement until after it had been approved by France. Congressional leaders, in fact, yielded to the President's wishes only after he had insisted on this course of action over their protests, it was learned.

It was the conviction of the legislative chieftains that farm relief legislation presented a big enough obstacle at this time.

Washington, May 18.—The farm bloc served notice on the Senate today that it would call up agricultural relief legislation before the end of the week.

The announcement was made by Senator McNary, Republican of Oregon, during debate on the Senate tentative program.

"We have waited two weeks on the House to act and the House seems to be no nearer a solution than when it first took up the question of farm relief," McNary said. "We must have action this week."

Washington, May 18.—A compromise bill, passed upon the combination of the Tincher and Aswell measures, will be the administration's plan for a solution of the farm relief problem, it was learned today. Administration leaders declare they will offer such a compromise to the House in an effort to end the deadlock over the Haugen bill.

May Carry Teapot Case to High Court

Announcement Made At St. Paul That Case Would Be Appealed If Adverse Decision Is Rendered.

St. Paul, May 18.—The Teapot Dome controversy, involving Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of Interior, and other high officials and business men, may be carried to the United States Supreme court.

This was revealed in the United States Circuit court today when counsel for both the government and Harry F. Sinclair's Mammouth Oil Co., which now controls Wyoming's naval oil reserves.

It was announced that an appeal would be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States should the Circuit Court of Appeals rule adversely against them in the government's present appeal to restrain the company from draining their oil reserves.

Paving on North Road to Begin Next Week

Laying of Concrete Will Start at End of Present Two Miles and Continue Five Miles

Paving on the state road from Maryville to Pickering probably will be started next week, if weather conditions are favorable, according to information received here from M. N. Wendle, engineer who will be in charge of the work for the C. H. Atkinson Paving Co.

The paving will begin at the end of the present concrete extending for two miles north of Maryville. The project is officially designated as section 5 of route 27 and is practically five miles in length.

Federal Power Commission Recommends Missouri Hydro-Electric Co., In Kansas City.

Washington, May 18.—The federal power commission today recommended that the Missouri Hydro-Electric Power Co., at Kansas City be granted permission to carry out a current project in Ripley and Shannon counties. Two other applicants for this project subsequently filed claims and as their developments were less comprehensive, the Kansas City concern was given the permit.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN MINN.

18 OUT OF 84 ARE REPORTED AS BEYOND CONTROL.

ONE TOWN IN RUINS

Two Austrian Lumberjacks Burned To Death In Alleghany National Forest Fire.

Duluth, Minn., May 18.—Eighty-four forest fires today were sweeping over timber and cut-over lands in five northern Minnesota areas comprising over 100,000 acres.

Eighteen of the fires were reported beyond control by forest rangers.

Confronted by the most serious fire situation that has arisen in years, forest rangers and volunteer fire fighters battled valiantly in an effort to halt the advance of the fire monster.

Industries at Two Harbors have practically suspended and officials of the Duluth and Iron Range Railroad announced that the company's shops may suspend operation to permit the workers to battle the flames.

The town of Knife River has been saved from destruction by a fire train manned by sixty-five fire fighters, according to reports received here today.

Minneapolis, May 18.—One Minnesota town was in ruins, several others were menaced by flames and nearly 100,000 acres of timber and cut-over lands were fire swept today as forest fires continued their devastating onslaughts in northern Minnesota.

The town of Cramer, north of Duluth, was swept out.

Winnipeg, May 18.—Railroad trains were held up, tracks ruined and thousands of acres of timber menaced by devastating flames in forest fires in Manitoba and along the northern border of Lake Superior today.

Two towns are threatened with disaster, with flames creeping steadily toward the water works, threatening to cut off the supply any moment.

Warren, Pa., May 18.—Two Austrian lumberjacks, whose names have not been learned, were burned to death in the Alleghany national forest fire which is raging beyond control, according to reports received today at the state forester's office.

Andrews May Delay Treaty Negotiations

Dry Czar Virtually Decided to Postpone Trip to London Latter Part of This Month.

Washington, May 18.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews has virtually decided to postpone his diplomatic mission to London, scheduled for May 22, to negotiate new amendments with Great Britain on the present anti-smuggling treaty.

Andrews said that negotiations were now being conducted by the state department to postpone the trip until the middle of July as he will be unable to leave Washington until Congress adjourns because of pending prohibition legislation.

Postponement of the London trip, Andrews said, will necessarily delay his border inspection tour until late in the summer or eary in the fall.

While abroad he plans to visit Germany, France, Spain, Denmark and the Netherlands in an attempt to negotiate anti-smuggling treaties with these governments. This diplomatic mission may take six weeks.

Reorganization of the prohibition unit is scheduled for July 1. Andrews plans to have his changes completed by July 15 so he can reach London before August 1.

DISARMAMENT WAY POINTED

SOUGHT BY U. S. THROUGH REGIONAL AGREEMENTS.

NATIONS IN MEETING

Twenty Governments Are Represented In Gathering Under Auspices of League of Nations.

Geneva, May 18.—The United States seeks disarmament through a system of regional agreements rather than in a universal system aimed at abolishing armaments all at once, Hugh Gibson, chairman of the American delegation, told the the League of Nations commission charged with preparing for a future conference on the reduction of armaments, at the open meeting here today.

Geneva, May 18.—The most serious effort yet undertaken toward world-wide disarmament was launched here today when a commission representing twenty of the leading nations of the world met under the auspices of the League of Nations to make preparations for an international disarmament conference.

The nations represented on the commission were, first, the ten who are now members of the League Council, England, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Spain, Sweden, Czecho-Slovakia, Brazil and Uruguay, and the following ten, who were invited by the League to participate in the deliberations: United States, Germany, Argentina, Chile, Bulgaria, Finland, Holland, Poland, Roumania and Serbia.

The conference will be the first international disarmament effort in which Germany has participated. Soviet Russia was also invited but refused to attend on the ground that satisfactory reparation had never been made for the assassination of a Russian representative, Vorowski, on Swiss soil while attending the Lausanne conference.

The United States, which is expected to play a leading role in the disarmament discussions beginning today, was represented by an unusually large and strong delegation, headed by Hugh S. Gibson, American minister at Berne, and including Dorwey Richardson, of the State Department, Allen W. Dulles, legation counsellor, Major General Dennis E. Nolan, military expert, Brigadier General H. A. Smith, military expert, Major George V. Strong, of the War Department, Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, naval expert, Rear Admiral Andrew T. Long, naval expert, Captain Adolphus Andrews, President Coolidge's naval aide, and Allan F. Winslow, secretary to the delegation.

The meeting of the preparatory commission today followed six years of careful study by the League of the whole problem of disarmament. Drafting of actual plans for the international conference is expected to take another year so that the final conference itself will probably not be held until 1927.

Despite these thorough preparations, however, League circles are not optimistic about the outcome of the conference. The very thoroughness of the preliminary investigations have served to disclose and develop the serious differences among the disarmament views of the leading powers.

The belief of France and other continental nations that actual disarmament must be preceded by some form of guarantee of their security is regarded here as the chief obstacle to disarmament progress. Among other obstacles feared are the anxiety of the United States to consider land and naval disarmament separately, the submarine question, and Great Britain's unwillingness to consider industrial strength, that is a nation's ability to mobilize industrial facilities for war time use, as a phase of general disarmament.

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

ANOTHER RECORD BROKEN.

Men and women of this day who scan the daily newspapers and oftimes sneeringly remark "there's nothing in it," have little thought and generally no knowledge of the tremendous effort and expense at which great news beats are made.

It has not been many years since the world was astonished at the information that Theodore Roosevelt was to receive a dollar a word for a series of articles from a certain magazine but Col. Roosevelt's national acquaintance and standing gave his utterances a business value beyond the mere announcement of his discoveries. Other men have since been paid as high as $10 per word but it remained for a number of newspapers including the New York Times, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch to break all records in the cost of a purely news telegram.

The world was more or less thrilled a few days ago by the announcement that the airship Norge had reached the North Pole. It was a simple little story of a hundred words sent by wireless from the airship. It represented an expenditure of $2,000 per word or $200,000 altogether. A great historic event has been achieved and columns have been written and other columns will follow but the thing that made all this posible cost the enormous sum of $200,000 spent in making the story possible, which does not include the great expense of distribution and outfitting staff correspondents and photographers and almost innumerable other expenses.

When Peary trudged to the North Pole in 1909, he had behind him 23 years of unsuccessful attempts and was about ready to give up when the New York Times advanced him $4,000 and aided him to end his career in glory. The recent achievement was financed by the three newspapers and breaks the record for cost of a single news feature but the world will no doubt agree that it was worth the money.

HOW TO AVOID DIVORCE EXPLAINED BY JUDGE.

Dayton, Ohio, May 18.—On the eve of his resignation from the domestic relations court, Judge Roland W. Baggott, drew up a list of rules which he has entitled "How to Avoid Divorce," and has offered them to every married couple.

The rules apply both ways—to both man and wife, the judge declared. Here are a few of them.

Don't play with gin.

A wife should spend at least one afternoon a week in the home.

If there are children they should have an occasional bath.

If a husband is attracted by certain externals, it would be well for the wife to use rogue, lipstick, and short skirts.

If a wife is attracted by raccoon coats and derby hats, the husband should deck himself accordingly.

Jefferson City, May 18—Damage estimated at $25,000 was done here last night by a wind-electrical and rain storm, during which five homes were struck by lightning, pavements washed away on the hills and many cellars flooded in the lower sections of the city. No one was injured.

Says Seances Were Held in White House

Rose Mackenburg Says Woman Told Her President and Family Attended Spiritualistic Services.

Washington, May 18.—Rose Mackenberg, testifying before a House committee today, declared that Dr. Jane Coates, head of the Spiritualistic Science Church of Washington, had told her that spiritual seances had been held at the White House and that President Coolidge and members of his official family had been present.

The committee is holding hearings on the Bloom bill to regulate practices of spiritualism in the capital.

Dr. Coates emphatically denied making the statement.

The committee room was frequently thrown into disorder as shouting women sought to present their side of the story.

State Geologist Here; Will Make Oil Survey

Has Been Intimate Friend of W. C. Pierce for Twenty-five Years—To Quitman Tomorrow.

H. A. Buehler of Rolla, Mo., state geologist and an intimate friend of W. C. Pierce for twenty-five years, is in Maryville today and will make an oil survey of the country near Quitman tomorrow.

Mr. Buehler, who has been associated with the state geological department for about twenty-five years, has made several various surveys in Northwest Missouri. He believes that the formations in this section of the state are favorable for oil production.

W. C. Pierce and W. F. Phares will accompany Mr. Buehler to Quitman tomorrow.

Butler's Appointment Was Confirmed

Washington, May 18.—Acting upon the request of Senator Williams, the senate late yesterday afternoon confirmed the appointment of Asa W. Butler as United States marshal for the Western Missouri district. Butler can now take office as soon as he is ready to qualify by taking the oath.

Senator Williams said there had been no doubt at any time that Mr. Butler would be named. Dr. E. B. Clements, the national committeeman, who was here, expressed gratification that the matter was closed and predicted Mr. Butler would make a highly efficient marshal.

The appointment closes up all major federal appointments in Missouri for the present. In every instance of new appointments to succeed Harding jobholders, the White House and administration here recognized the regular administration, there being agreement on the indorsements from the senator, national committeeman, national committeewomen, state chairman and the governor, when he cared to express an opinion. The hardest fight of all came over the marshalship at Kansas City, there being no contest at all over the St. Louis appointments. After the determined effort made to hold I. K. Parshall in office, there is not the slightest shadow of doubt as to whom the administration recognizes as spokesman for the party in the state.

Miss Aileen Vanzant Is Chosen May Queen

Fete Held At State Teachers College Yesterday Said To Be Best In History.

Miss Aileen Vanzant of Eagleville was chosen May Queen at the State Teachers College annual fete held on the campus west of the administration building late yesterday afternoon. Miss Vanzant represented the seniors and was chosen out of competition including queens from the other classes.

Mrs. J. Arthur Noid, Mrs. L. M. Eck, and Miss Olive DeLuce were the judges who chose the may queen. Selection was based on the ensemble effect of the queen and her attendants. Miss Vanzant was attended by six senior women, dressed in lavender and purple robes, and two pages, dressed in pink. The queen wore white. The whole effect of the winning group was Grecian.

Many persons have said that the fete yesterday was the most beautiful ever given at the College. Women's physical education classes at the College and children from the Maryville ward schools participated. There were eighteen numbers on the program, which lasted about an hour and a half.

The costumes for the fete were beautiful. One of the outstanding numbers was the dance given by little Mary Josephine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dreyer. This dance followed the coronation of the queen, toward the last of the fete. Little Miss Dreyer brought forward the crown and then danced after it had been placed on Miss Vanzant's head.

The queen was notified of her selection by the maypole dancers, who circled her throne after their dance.

A large crowd attended the fete.

WET AND DRY ISSUE BIGGEST

PENNSYLVANIA VOTERS GO TO POLLS TODAY.

WILL DECIDE LEADER

Successor Of Late Boise Penrose Will Be Chosen As Result Of Quaker State's Action on Senatorship.

Philadelphia, May 18—More than a million Pennsylvanians marched to the polls today to decide the bitterest and most important state political fight in a generation, a fight that will determine whether the second largest state in the Union is wet or dry and at the same time determine the Republican leadership of this rock-ribbed Republican stronghold, which has been disputed since the death of Boise Penrose.

A record vote and a hot time was in prospect this morning as the polls opened, with cries of fraud and charges of double dealing and trickery already resounding.

By common consent, the verdict goes with the Senatorial nomination for which there are three candidates—Senator George W. Pepper, backed by the powerful Mellon interests, Congressman William S. Vare, the boss of Philadelphia, and Governor Gifford Pinchot, the rebel reformer of Keystone Republicansm.

The dominant issue in this primary today is prohibition. Vare is wet, ringing wet. Pinchot is bone dry, and Pepper represents the moderate ground, being neither very wet or very dry but standing for the law as it now is.

The fight constitutes the greatest popular referendum on the wet and dry issue in an off-year political contest.

Grigsby Orchard One of Largest in This Section

The Grigsby orchard, two and a half miles southwest of Skidmore, is believed to be the largest in Nodaway County and one of the largest in Northwest Missouri.

The orchard consists of 110 acres of apple trees and about 5 acres of pear trees. There are 5,700 apple trees, 700 of which have been set recently. Last year, the orchard produced forty-one carloads of fruit but it is believed the yield this year will not be as much.

There are 1,250 gano and Ben Davis trees, 900 Delicious, 1,250 Jonathans, 1,000 York Imperials and 250 Jennets. The Delicious and Jonathan trees produced for the first time last year.

The fruit last year was sold to a Kansas City firm.

The orchard is sprayed four times a year and it requires four days for each spraying. The orchard proper was put out about thirty-five years ago and was formerly owned by W. W. Grigsby.

A. F. Harvey is trustee for the organization which now manages the orchard. A committee consisting of H. W. Montgomery and G. L. Owen of Skidmore, J. M. Hutt of Kansas City and J. O. Miller of Maryville, co-operates with Mr. Harvey in the management.

PRESBYTERIAN MEET IS HELD

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN

Rotary System Abandoned Except for Trustees—Plans Discussed for Addition and Basement

A reception for their new minister, the Rev. W. N. Dewar, and his family, was given last night by the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church. It was held at the church and the women of the congregation provided a basket supper.

The supper was followed by a congregational meeting at which officers were elected. At the request of the moderator, it was agreed that the rotary system of holding office should be abandoned and that elders and deacons should be elected for life, in accord with Presbyterian practice. The rotary system was retained, however, in the election of trustees.

The elders elected were: George H. Colbert, T. M. C. Neff, L. Howard Evans, Frederick French, Martin Lewis, sr., Uel W. Lamkin, Charles A. Wadley, C. E. Wells and Howard Watson.

The present trustees were retained with the exception of Hal Hooker, and John Richey whose term expired. Their places were filled by the election of John H. Knox and Emery E. Airy.

Newly elected deacons are John Richey, Hal Hooker, O. M. Watkins, Frank A. Sims, Philip Simpich, Eldon W. Irvin, Karl Zimmerman, W. T. VanCleve, Roy Curfman, Forest Gillam, Ralph Marcell, Charles A. Haggard and Martin Lewis, jr.

A request by the women of the church for a new kitchen to be built on at the rear of the church was discussed, together with a plan for the raising of the church and excavation for a modern church basement. The latter plan was placed in the hands of a committee of trustees for investigation and a later report to the congregation.

The women also are planning for a redecoration of the interior of the church during the holidays.

FARM GLIMPSES

BY BILLY TILSON.

The farmers up in Atchison township were all in the fields yesterday. Most of them will finish planting their corn in the next three or four days. The rain will be greatly welcomed as before the last rain crust had formed and the corn was having difficulty in getting through the ground. Pastures were making slow growth.

Ed Griffey, southeast of Clearmont, finished planting corn yesterday. Ed has a field that is coming up fine and will soon be ready for cultivating. He says his seed is all sprouting fine.

Forrest Martin, northeast of Clearmont, took a truck load of sheep to the St. Joseph market.

Ed Teschauer, north of Clearmont, has a large bunch of yearling steers that he will run on pasture this summer and feed them through the winter and spring. Ed puts the finishing touch on them before shipping. He also has a fine bunch of hogs on the farm and the present price is putting a smile on Ed's face.

Henry Crane, north of Clearmont, was getting his corn in the ground yesterday. He says the farmers in general are up with their spring work in his community and thinks conditions are shaping up better for business of all kinds.

Oll Coleman, northwest of Pickering has taken out the large hedge on his farm along the road and put in its place a wire hog-tight fence, using steel posts.

H. O. Kellogg, northeast of Clearmont, has a dandy load of black yearlings in his feed lot and is putting on the finishing touch. He will ship out the first of June. He has a load of the big Chester White hogs that will soon be ready for marketing. Harry feeds a load of those choice black yearlings every winter and spring, and raises a couple of load of those white hogs.

W. N. Houstin, northeast of Burlington Junction, shipped out last week two load of choice yearlings sending them to the Chicago market. Mr. Houstin says while they kept his money all together that those kind of cattle are not commanding the price they should for the investment and risk in feeding.

We stopped at the home of E. F. Scott, west of the city, a few days ago and found the owner and his hired men busy getting the corn in the ground. We also viewed as fine a load of yearling white-faced steers as will be found in many a day's ride. Mr. Scott has had them on feed for nearly seven months with daily ration of corn and alfalfa hay. There isn't a wrinkle but what is smoothed out. With the great bulk of fat that they are carrying they are as even a load as you will ever see bunched together in one lot. Emmett has taken great care in putting them in extra condition for the market and they will average around 900 pounds at the present time and adding on 20 pounds of solid fat a week. He will ship them the latter part of the month. Emmett also has a load of hogs in the feed lot with them and expects to ship them about the same time he lets the cattle go. The market is not what it should be on this quality of steers.

Corsets

The popularity of the corset depends on the fit, the fabric, and what it does for your comfort.

Soft firmness, gentle restraint of the flesh, giving the right support to the abdominal muscles and the light boning in the back giving that flattening effect so essential to well groomed women. A girdle with upcurving front is constructed to flatten the diaphram, fastening on the side with hooks and eyes instead of clasps, elastic sections on the sides molding the flesh into graceful lines.

So much depends on the correct fitting of a girdle, and brassiere, so be sure you are properly fitted each time you buy.

Excellent values and reasonable pricings.

CHAPTER XLI.

On the way he called loudly for the maid.

He laid Audrey on her bed and knelt beside her. Her sobs had resolved themselves into a steady, rhythmic clicking, broken by short, disconnected phrases. Her eyelids were growing heavy and her eyes dull.

When the maid came with ammonia and smelling salts, he ran down to the telephone. His fingers shook as he took down the receiver and called the first nerve specialist in the telephone book, and he talked so incoherently that the doctor's secretary had to ask him to repeat from the beginning. It was well along in the afternoon when the specialist arrived. Morton waited for him to come downstairs in an agony of impatience.

The doctor looked at him shrewdly as they went into the drawing room. "What is your relationship to this young woman, sir?"

"I adopted her when she was a little child," said Morton. "What is wrong with her? She hasn't had any physical illness."

"No," the doctor answered. "It's purely nervous—a complete collapse. Now tell me all about her recent life."

So Morton related the whole story of Audrey's hopeless love for him, her flight from Springfield, her entrance into stage life, and, finally, of her despondency over her "uselessness" in the world.

The specialist looked at him gravely. "I fear you have contrived to wreck a very fine and beautiful organism, Mr. Morton. While striving to gratify Miss Morton's every wish, you have denied her just those natural and simple pleasures which girls of her age require for their mental health. She should have had young friends, parties and a normal school and college life. She fell in love with you because she was starving and you were the nearest male. You should have seen the danger signs long ago."

Morton covered his face with his hands. Glancing at his taut body, the neurologist relented. "See here, you can't let go, too. You may be needed to look after that girl up-stairs. I didn't mean to accuse you of anything. You've just been blind, that's all.

"Now you get things ready for the two nurses that I will send and hand them these notes when they arrive. I'll look in again tonight. I think she'll sleep soundly for some time now."

Morton rose staggeringly. "Tell me," he begged. "Will—will she get well?"

The doctor was closing his satchel. "She will not die," he said. "But whether she will get well—I cannot say. She seems to be slipping into coma."

Morton caught at the chair back with one fumbling hand.

A night and a day had passed and another night had begun.

It seemed impossible—unbearable—that those English chintzes in Audrey's bedroom could leer so starkly with their great splotchy flowers under the dim, cold light of the moon streaming in through the window.

All night long their monstrous poppies had mocked the grief-stricken man who sat in Audrey's little wicker sewing chair in the window alcove.

When the night nurse put on the tiny red night light and lay down on the couch by the girl's bed, hoping to bring deeper rest to her patient by perfect darkness and quiet, Morton still sat rigid in the little chair.

Audrey slept heavily throughout the night. Only once or twice, when she made a little uneasy moaning sound and stirred in the bed, did Morton leave his post.

Standing over her bed at these times, he strained his eyes for some sign of returning consciousness. But the dark-fringed eyes never opened and the slightly puckered forehead did not relax its lines of strain and weariness. He crept miserably back to his chair.

At dawn the day nurse, coming on duty, found him still wide-eyed, staring at Audrey's bed. "Come," she said, "you must go to bed. You look very ill yourself with sleeplessness. I will call you the instant Miss Morton awakes. She is sure to ask for you."

But the man only shook his head and dragged himself to his feet. He went out of the sick room and down the stairs. Tears welled into his eyes and he stopped a moment, leaning against the bannister.

As he stood there the front door-bell rang. The butler was not yet abroad and Morton hastened to open the door himself. A small, dingy-faced boy in messenger's uniform stood in the doorway.

"Is Mr. Harry Morton at home?" he asked with a certain impudent assurance. Morton saw him slip a foot in between the door and the jamb in case of an attempted ejection.

"What is it?" he said. "I am Mr. Morton."

"Huh," said the lad, "I've got a message for you. Wasn't to give it to anybody else but you. Thought I might have trouble busting in."

Morton surveyed the little fellow. "Somebody must have paid you well to ensure such loyalty. Suppose you step in and tell me all about it."

In spite of his sad preoccupation he felt a twinge of pity for the little messenger with his ragged uniform and pinched face.

The butler was just poking a sleepy face through the hall door from the kitchen regions. Morton turned to him. "Bring hot coffee and some crullers or something to the drawing room, please," he said.

The boy's face brightened. "Oh, gee!" he said under his brathe.

He went out of the sick room and down the stairs. Tears welled into his eyes.

In the drawing room Morton pointed to a davenport but the youngster was abashed by its silken cushions and stood clumsily on one foot.

"What is your message?" asked Morton. "Tell me quickly."

"Well," the boy began, "it's from a young lady. She said I was to see you if I had to climb the fire escape to do it. She's been calling you all night but the 'phone don't answer."

"There is sickness here," said Morton. "The bells are muffled."

"Well, I guess there's sickness at the other end, too," replied the boy. "When the lady sent for me she looked about ready to kick the bucket herself. All pale and scared looking."

"What did she say to you," said Morton impatiently. The butler was coming in with a tray and the boy's eyes drifted to the steaming silver coffee pot and the sugar-coated crullers.

Then, coming back to the business at hand with a jerk, he said, "She told me to tell you that you must come at once, that she HAD to see you right away. And I was not to take 'No' for an answer."

"Who is the lady?" asked Morton.

The boy drew a card from his pocket and handed it to Morton. On it was penciled the single word, "Nona."

"I was to come back with the answer," said the child, devouring the breakfast tray with his eyes.

Morton turned toward the door. "You eat your breakfast while you wait. I'll give you the answer in a minute."

He went out of the room and up the stairs. The nurse met him at Audrey's door. "How is she?" he asked, breathlessly.

"About the same," said the nurse. "If anything she's sleeping a little more quietly. She seems thoroughly exhausted. The doctor will be here before noon."

"Then," said Morton, "I am going out for a little while. It is an urgent business or I wouldn't leave her. You don't think she will ask for me?"

The nurse shook her head. "This coma seems to be very heavy. In cases of this sort unconsciousness usually lasts for two or three days. We can't tell anything about her condition till she comes out of it."

Morton entered the drawing room a moment later dressed for the street. The messenger was scraping up the last crumbs of the crullers from his plate. His face was smeared with powdered sugar.

"Come on," said Morton, and they left the house together. "You can go on your business now," he said to the boy. "I will answer the message myself."

The boy hesitated while a belligerent expression dawned and died on his face. "But she wasn't going to pay me till I came back with the answer," he said, civilly enough.

Morton gave him a bill which sent him gleefully scampering.

The first taxi on the street that morning picked Morton up. He gave an anxious glance back at the apartment house as they drove away. "Hurry!" he said to the driver, giving the address of Nona's apartment.

The faint, sick light of early morning was over the streets of Kansas City. The only spots of light and activity were the quick lunch shops on corners here and there where workmen were stoking the machinery for the day's labor.

They neared their destination.

Morton glanced up and saw that a light burned in Nona's bedroom. He paid the cab driver and ran up the stairs of the apartment building, not waiting for the sleepy elevator man.

When he tapped on Nona's door it gave under his touch and he entered the room. For a moment he stopped in horror. The place was littered with bottles and cigaret ashes. The porcelain lampshade on Nona's little table had been broken in three pieces and one of these lay on the rug at his feet.

Every electric bulb was still burning.

While he stood in the doorway the door of Nona's bedroom burst open and Nona herself stepped out. She was wrapped in a long white robe with a border of eiderdown and her black hair and white face completed the effect of some stark and tragic etching.

She staggered toward him, clasping her hands. "Harry!"

Morton went to her. "What on earth is wrong, Nona?"

She swayed slightly and passed her hand over her brow. "I had to see you, I HAD to see you. I called and called, and you didn't answer. And I got desperate. You're life itself to me, Harry!"

She clung to him with her face buried on his lapel. The robe fell back and he could see that she was wearing an evening dress underneath.

She let the white robe slip from her shoulders to the ground.

"Haven't you been to bed, Nona?"

She shook her head. "I don't want to sleep. Last night, when you weren't in the theater, and didn't come to my dressing room, I thought I could stand it. I don't know how I got through with the show.

When the gang wanted to come here for a party afterward I said all right. But I lay on my bed in there most of the time they were here wondering where you were."

"They've made a fine wreck of your room," commented Morton.

Nona nodded wearily. "Yes, they were having a bethothal celebration. Lois and Sunshine are going to get married."

"Yes, she's tired of working and dieting for the stage and he's always liked her. I'm glad—but what about me? We've got to talk about you and me!"

Morton frowned and looked down at her sternly. "What is there to say, Nona?"

"Just this," she flashed at him. "You've made me love you more than anything in this world. And now you propose to send me away. Well, I can't go.

"I know there's been a love in your life that I can't make you forget, but IT'S in the past. And I have to go on living all through the years. I can't go on alone.

"Harry, I don't ask you to marry me. I am humble, beneath you. But, oh, Harry, I love you. You mean all of life to me! Let me stay with you!"

Charles B. Wood, a Blacksmith at Hopkins 42 Years

Charles B. Wood of Hopkins has been in the blacksmith business there in the same location for forty-two years.

Mr. Wood was born in Morrow County, Ohio, Dec. 26, 1858 and came to Nodaway County with his parents on May 27, 1870. The family moved on a farm two and a half miles southwest of Hopkins.

Mr. Wood's father built a blacksmith shop on the farm but finally sold it and bought a shop in Hopkins. It was located at the same place where the Hopkins Journal office is now. The Wood family moved to Hopkins in the fall of 1871.

In 1880, the elder Mr. Wood sold the shop and the family moved to Nebraska and then to Wisconsin, finally returning to Hopkins in February, 1884 when father and son purchased a blacksmith shop and began the manufacture of wagons. This was March 1, 1884. The elder Mr. Wood continued in business until February, 1894 when he sold his interest to his son, who has been in charge of it ever since.

CATTLE AND HOGS HIGHER. LAMBS STEADY.

Kansas City Stock Yards, May 17.—Though no quotable advance was reported in fat cattle in Chicago the market here was strong to 25 cents higher, mostly 10 to 15 cents up. The advance applied to both butcher classes and fat steers. Stockers and feeders were higher also. Hog prices were up 10 to 15 cents, spots 25 cents compared with last week's close, and in a new high position for the year. The medium and heavy weight kinds have advanced more than the lighter weights. Active demand prevailed in the sheep division.

Today's Receipts.

Receipts today were 10,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep, compared with 13,000 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 9,000 sheep a week ago, and 13,850 cattle, 6,200 hogs and 10,000 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.

Trade in fat cattle opened early at strong to 25 cents higher prices, and maintained a strong tone throughout. The advance was more pronounced in the medium and light weight grades than in the heavy kinds, but they ruled higher last week. Chicago still showed a hesitating tone and it will take higher prices at that market before the western advance can be extended. The top prices here today was paid for medium weight steers at $9.65. They were not strictly prime. Other good to choice steers in practically all weights sold at $9 to $9.50, and the fair to good kinds brought $8.25 to $9. In the quarantine division grass fat steers brought $6 too $7.25. Cows and heifers were strong to 15 cents higher. Choice heifers brought $9 to $9.25 and choice cows $7.50 to $7.85. Veal calves were firm best light weights bringing $11 to $12.

Stockers and Feeders.

Stockers were scarce at strong to 25 cents higher prices and feeders were steady to strong. The bulk of the thin steers sold at $8 to $8.50. Stock cows and heifers were scarce.

Hogs.

Hog prices continued the advance that has been in progress since late April and today quotations reached a new high position for the year. Compared with last week's close quotations were up 10 to 15 cents and were 50 to 75 cents above a week ago, with the largest advance on medium and heavy weights. Today 130 to 160 pound classes sold at $14.10 to $14.25; 160 to 225 pounds, $13.85 to $14.10; 225 to 260 pounds, $13.60 to $13.85 and 260 to 325 pounds, $13.35 to $13.60. Packing sows sold at $11.75 to $12.35; stags, $10.50 to $11.25 and stock hogs and pigs, $14.25 to $15.15.

Sheep and Lambs.

No winter fed lambs arrived today and only a few scattered bunches will be available from now on. Native spring lambs sold at $16 to $16.50 and western springs, $15.50 to $16.35. Shorn wethers brought $8 to $8.75 and shorn ewes, $6.50 to $7.25.

Horses and Mules.

Only a few horses and mules were offered today. Prices held fully steady.

Begins Search for First Immigrant Here

Anthropologist Hopes To Prove That First Americans Came From Asia—Leaves for Alaska.

Washington, May 18—A search for the first American immigrant—the oldest inhabitant and the ancestor of the Indians found by Columbus—has been started here by the Smithsonian institution.

Dr. Alee Hrdlicka, national museum anthropologist, started for Alaska yesterday, for a few bits of pottery and bone, to prove scientifically the belief that the first Americans came from Asia.

Hrdliska set out for the Yukon, where legends are told among the Eskimos of battles between Asians and the Eskimos, terrible struggles for the right of way past the fishing grounds that furnished livelihood to primitive men.

Hrdlicka thinks that the ancestors of the first American crossed the Bering strait—fifty miles wide at its narrowest point—and worked his way down the coastal plains into the temperate zones, where the warm climate caused various immigrants to develop the many tribes of "Amerindionso."

Bits of pottery have been found in Alaska. The Eskimo, who now makes up the total native population, do not make pottery. Through discovery and study of other specimens of pottery, bones and primitive instruments, Hrdlicka thinks he can find a clue to the first visitors who probably came just after the glacier receded.

RUNAWAY AUTOMOBILE CAUSES DAMAGE SUIT

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 18.—Prof. Justine H. Bacon, of Kalamazoo College, won a damage award of $1,755 from C. H. Snashall, owner of an automobile which "ran away" after being parked and crashed into Bacon as he stood on a street corner.

BERLIN BARS "LOCARNO" AS TRADE-MARK FOR NETS.

Berlin—Suspicion that an underhanded slur against the Locarno policy was intended, has caused the German patent office to prohibit a prominent net manufacturing company from adopting "Locarno" as a trade-mark.

It was suggested that the use of this name might be construed as meaning that Germany was enticed into the Allies' net at Locarno.

Another ban was imposed by the patent office when permission was refused to an underwear manufacturing concern, which wished to employ the word "Decency" as its trade-mark on undergarments. Evidently, the slogan "Decency" was considered suggestive of indecency.

TWO WOMEN PRAISE SAME MEDICINE

Both Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"After the birth of my little daughter I was very badly run-down. I could not think of going to a hospital, but grew steadily worse, being compelled to stay in bed two or three days each week. A friend of my sister's told of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her, and my sister bought me two bottles of it. I had not taken all of one bottle when I was up and able to do some work. I am truly a booster for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. Mayme Lynch, 1119 Island Ave., Ext., McKee's Rocks, Pa.

Mrs. Hope L. Smith, a farmer's wife of Route 3, Floyd, Va., says she was ill for ten years with a good deal of pain in her side and so weak she could hardly work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her so much she is telling her friends about it. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine.

Closing Grain Review

Chicago, May 18—Grain prices closed higher on the Chicago Board of Trade today, after a pronounced rally from the early dip in wheat prices.

After being under pressure early in the day, wheat prices rallied and closed fractionally higher than yesterday in all deliveries. Liquidation by local operators and the poor foreign outlook caused the morning's price sag but reports of the bad European crop condition and the improvement in the port business to the continent produced a bullish business. American weather conditions had a neutral effect on the local pit, as southwestern reports were optimistic while the Northwest did not receive any of the badly needed moisture.

Tired holders forced corn to a new low this morning and receipts of this grain were the smallest in months but prices rallied with wheat and closed fractionally higher, although the undertone was not quite as firm as in the wheat pit.

Oats closed irregular after a dull day. May and September prices were up but July was fractionally lower.

Provisions closed higher on the strength of hogs and short covering.

Son-in-Law N. J. Judd Was Killed by Clerk

Murder Took Place at Smithfield, Ill. —Judd Family Formerly Lived at Ravenwood and Parnell.

Carl Howerter, whose wife was Miss Dollie Judd, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Judd, of Smithfield, Ill., was murdered last Tuesday morning at Smithfield, Ill. The Judd family formerly resided in Parnell and Ravenwood, Mrs. Judd being the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morgan, and a sister of Newton Morgan, all now deceased.

According to a newspaper account, Howerter, one of the owners of Judd & Howerter store at Smithfield and Frank Jones, a clerk at that store, both prominent and respected citizens of that community, were found shot to death on the floor of the store by Mrs. Dollie Howerter, wife of Mr. Howerter. It was apparent that Jones, in a fit of temper, had fired five shots at his employer on arriving at the store about 6 o'clock that morning and had saved the last shot for himself, putting it through his body just above the heart, evidently dying almost instantly.

The two men are reported to have quarreled several times previously. Jones was said to have had a violent temper. Reports here are that Jones had been discharged Saturday night, but that the two men had patched up their differences Sunday. Jones did not work Monday, having entertained company from Peoria, but it was his custom to lay off occasionaly and nothing was thought of that.

Jones had evidently gone to the store with no intention of working as he was dressed in his best clothing. The gun he used was one kept at the store. It was kept near Mr. Howerter's sleeping place, where he remained each night to guard against robbers.

The only other gun in the place was a .32 calibre automatic pistol which was locked in a drawer and had not been disturbed. The one he used was a .44 calibre Colts Frontier single shot model. It was found at his feet.

Howerter was about 30 years old and Jones about 35.

Since the burglary of the store a few months ago, Mr. Howerter has been sleeping in the store and he had done so that night.

Delay in opening the store brought about the discovery of the bodies. Mrs. Dawson Casper went to the store for some supplies and found it locked, although it is always opened for business about 6 o'clock. She returned home and later went back to the store. This time not finding it open she went to the Howerter home near the rear of the store and told Mrs. Howerter that the store was not yet open. Mrs. Howerter then obtained the key of her father, N. J. Judd, and opened the door and discovered the two men shot to death.

The bodies were not touched, awaiting the coming of the coroner. Carl Howerter was evidently sweeping out as a broom and pile of sweeping compound lay at his feet. He was slumped down on his face behind the desk at the south end of the building in front of the shoe department. Jones lay about ten feet northwest of him in front of a counter of groceries. Jones lay on his back in a perfect pool of blood.

Carl Howerter is a son of former Supervisor P. D. Howerter. He married Miss Dollie Judd, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Judd, wealthy residents of Smithfield and was a partner in the general merchandise business of Judd & Howerter.

Frank Jones was a son of the late Marion Jones, former resident of the country southeast of town. He was formerly in newspaper work. For the past two or three years he has worked in the Judd & Howerter store. He was elected township clerk at the recent election.

Mr. Howerter is survived by his wife and four small children and his parents; Mr. Jones by his mother with whom he lived.

Both men were prominent in business and socially and stood high in the village and community. Mr. Howerter was a member of the board of aldermen and was a member of the Masonic lodge at Cuba.

Things That Aren't Written In Your Diploma

LIFE is a glorious Future — on Commencement Day. From school or college young men and women come forth equipped through education to take up their chosen work—to win from the world the comforts, happiness, success it offers.

Your diploma, though, does not record the responsibilities, the obligations that are yours. The duties of doing worthwhile work, of "making good" in the field you enter, of setting an example for younger folks to follow—these are implied on Commencement Day.

No matter what line of endeavor you select you'll find a banking connection helpful. Here, too, you'll find a friendly helpfulness and the experience that can be a valuable guide in handling money.

"Have a Camel"

Open one up! The tobacco tells its own story

CAMELS are made of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown. To prove what we say about Camel's tobacco quality, make this test:

Take a Camel and any other cigarette. Tear off the papers and place the tobaccos from the two cigarettes in separate piles. Now shake them up and examine the tobaccos. Your own eyes will quickly show you the difference, how the Camel tobacco is longer and of a riper color. Then gather up the two piles separately—and smell them. You will at once notice the rich, fragrant aroma of Camel tobaccos not found in the other.

This marked difference is even more apparent when you "taste the smoke." It is solely because of the quality of the tobaccos and the skill of the blending that Camels never tire the taste, never leave a cigaretty after-taste.

Camels are so good that we know you will like them. Give them every test known and you will find Camels the highest quality cigarette made, regardless of price. Have a Camel!
